

These are unprecedented times. There's no roadmap.

We're facing conversations that we never expected—or wanted—to have.

We've had patients die, and not all were elderly. Our colleagues are sick too. But there is another side to this too. Our colleagues are pitching in. People are stepping up to support each other in unexpected, beautiful ways. Together we can be bigger. And we can make it through this with our empathy, compassion, and sense of service intact.

For advice on how to have difficult conversations, reach out to:

VitalTalk is a 501c3 nonprofit social impact startup dedicated to making communication skills for serious illness part of every clinician's toolbox. Visit vitaltalk.org for additional resources.